

In today's society, children are face with more distractions than our parents. With drugs, peer pressure and psychiatric disorders our children need guidance. It is important to notice the signs and symptoms and get treatment for your child before it worsens. Your child may be experiencing anxiety from school, bullies, difficulty maintaining focus due to AD/HD or disrespecting parents and other adults. Our therapists at Luis Hines and Associates, P.A. are trained in working with children and adolescents and are available to help you.
